All for the Union: How Society Wove Itself into the Fabric of the Civil War

The Civil War comes to the Peter Wentz Farmstead September 17th and 18th! Come and experience how the War affected society from both a military and civilian perspective. Witness artillery demonstrations from Battery F, First Pennsylvania Light Artillery and learn how soldiers camped in the field. Meet members of the U.S. Sanitary Commission to understand how civilians aided the war effort. Learn stories of enslaved Freedom Seekers from UGR3Day Underground Railroad Experiences, Inc. Visit the Schwenkfelder Library and Heritage Center's exhibit on Montgomery County's own General John Hartranft. Enjoy rousing music from the Fort Delaware Cornet Band.

All ages, free. No registration required.

Saturday, October 1 from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm

Exhibit Opening - From Home to Headquarters: Washington in Worcester

We know that Washington slept here, but what else did he do? Join us for the grand opening of our new exhibit - From Home to Headquarters: Washington in Worcester - to find out! View the recreation of Washington's Aide-de-Camp office and learn about the Peter Wentz Farmstead's connection to the Battle of Germantown. Hear stories about the other visitors Washington brought with him - from his 50-man Life Guard, to his household staff of both hired and enslaved workers, and his aides-de-camp: including Alexander Hamilton, John Laurens, and Tench Tilghman.

All ages; free.

They Passed This Way Campfire Program

Did you know that George Washington and the Continental army traveled along the same routes in Montgomery County that we often drive on today? Come to this campfire program to hear about the places that Washington and his men visited including the Peter Wentz house and Methacton Hill. Join Ranger Marc and gather around the campfire to hear first-person accounts from soldiers and civilians who lived and witnessed this fascinating time in our shared past.

Follow the lanterns from the parking lot to the campfire. In case of bad weather, the program will be cancelled.

All ages; free.

Saturday, October 15 at 11:00 am, 1:00 pm, or 3:00 pm

For the Trouble of the House

How do we know George Washington stayed at the Peter Wentz house? As it turns out Washington kept a detailed expense account that lists both room and board that he paid to those who provided it for him and his staff. For example, for the dates that Washington stayed with the Wentz's, there are receipts that show that the general paid Peter's son Mathias Wentz for milk, butter, cabbages and other food items. Records also show that the general paid Mathias for rent, in entries recorded as "for the trouble of the house." Come and learn about Washington's stay with the Wentz's as we delve into these accounts that make history spring to life.

All ages; free. Limited space; registration required. Meet at the visitor center at the scheduled times.

Saturday, November 5 from 10:00 am to 3:30 pm

Homesteading 101: Cider Pressing

Join Farmer Jim as he discusses one way that Pennsylvania Germans preserved apples. He will be demonstrating on a restored 19th Century apple press. Learn about the many heirloom apple varieties and how the juice from this wonderful fruit was preserved before the age of pasteurization and refrigeration.

All ages; free. No registration required.

Saturday, November 12

Homesteading 101: Fermenting Sauerkraut at Home

Join us as we discuss the tradition of making sauerkraut within Pennsylvania German society. Participants will learn about modern and traditional methods for turning cabbage into the wonderful product we call sour cabbage. The process will be demonstrated from start to finish.

Adults only, $5 materials fee. Limited space, pre-registration required.

Saturday, December 3 Time 3:00 pm to 8:00 pm
