District Attorney Ferman said, "We are here today to remember the sacrifice and dedication of our law enforcement officers. Trooper Wesoloski was one of the men and woman standing here today, an individual who chose to put his or her life on the line in order to protect others. Trooper Wesoloski went above and beyond the call of duty through his service to multiple counties as well as service to the country with his time in the U.S. Army. We come here to remember him, and honor him, but also to remind officers that they will always be honored for their sacrifice, for their duty, and for answering the call."
